I'm a student of Mehran university studying in computer science department. I have cleared my 5th semester having a 3 plus GPA.

I have studied several programming languages, among which I developed an interest in web development. I have gained proficiency in HTML, CSS, JavaScript, Bootstrap, PHP, and MySQL. I have worked on various projects related to these languages and have completed two orders on Fiverr, all of which are web-related. Additionally, I have completed the Delta 2.0 web development course from my college's channel, where I built two full-stack projects: an Airbnb-like website and a blog website.

Currently, I am on a two-month holiday, during which I aim to enhance my skills through practical work in a company. My objective is to gain real-life experience that will benefit me in the future as a professional programmer. While monetary compensation from the company would be appreciated, my main goal is to join a reputable company where I can grow and develop my skills further. I hope this internship will be highly beneficial for me in achieving my goals.
